Short notes on the most commonly used High Explosives.

Blasting Gelatine.—The strongest explosive known. It is used for drifting and tunnelling in the hardest rock such as quartz, hematite, whinstone, etc. It offers a very high degree of water resistance.

Special Gelatine 90 per cent strength.—It is used for blasting very hard rock and has good water resistance though not comparable with that of blasting gelatine.

Special Gelatine 80 per cent strength.—This is the standard high explosive and is used for tunnelling in average ground, blasting in quarries, stopping in hard ground and ripping in collieries. It is fairly resistant to water, but less so than special gelatine 90 per cent strength.

Special Gelatine 75 per cent strength.—Another general purpose explosive very slightly weaker than special gelatine 80 per cent strength.

The trees will be sold in one lot and knocked down to the highest bidder.

1 Every one bidding at the sale should state whether he bids on his own account or as an agent, and in the latter case, should deposit a written authority signed by the principal, otherwise his bid will be rejected.

2 The selling officers either on grounds of doubtful solvency or other reasons recorded by him may at his discretion disqualifying a bidder from bidding at the sale.

3 Every intending bidder shall deposit with the selling officer Rs. 25 (Rupees twenty five only) as earnest money before the commencement of the sale. The sale is subject to confirmation by the officer empowered in that behalf. But the Deputy Commissioner, reserves the power of cancelling the sale or accepting a bid other than the highest without reasons. The deposit of unsuccessful bidders will be refunded at the close of the sale.

4 The successful bidder shall, immediately after the sale deposit not less than one fourth of the purchase money and pay the balance in a fortnight from the date of his receipt of the order of confirmation.

The earnest money paid under clause (3) will be adjusted towards the balance of the purchase money or the last instalment thereof as the case may be.

In default of the due payment of any portion of the purchase money, the trees may be resold by the selling officer at the expense and the risk of the purchaser, the money already paid by the purchaser being also liable to forfeiture.

5 The purchaser shall not cut or remove the trees unless and until the sale has been confirmed, but shall cut and remove them within three month thereafter. If the trees are not cut and removed within the time allowed, they may be resold by the selling officer at the expense and risk of the purchaser, the moneys already paid by the purchaser being also liable to forfeiture.

NOTE.—(i) In darkhast cases in which the applicant himself is the auction purchaser. it is not necessary to insist on the cutting and removal of the trees unless, for special reasons e.g. (in lands close to the fore-shore of lands) their removal is considered desirable.

6 When the selling officer orders a resale of the trees under clause (1) or (5) notice of the resale shall be given to the purchaser and he shall not, after the receipt of such notice, cut or remove the trees. Any loss resulting from the resale with interest thereon at 12 per cent per annum will be realised from the purchaser as if it were an arrear of land revenue but in no circumstances will the purchaser be entitled to the profit if any, accruing at the sale.

Instead of reselling the trees under clause (4) or clause (5) the selling officer may, in his discretion, recover as if it were an arrear of land revenue from the purchaser.

7 The order of confirmation will be subject to revision within one month from the date of confirmation by the authority superior to the confirming authority, if the revising authority is satisfied that there has been a material irregularity in the conduct of the sale or that the order exceeded the powers of the officers who passed it or that it was passed under a mistake of fact or owing to fraud or misrepresentation.

8 The trees should be cut and removed so as not to cause any damage to the adjoining houses or other building or property and the auction purchaser will be liable for any such damage.
